

How to Draw Fireworks

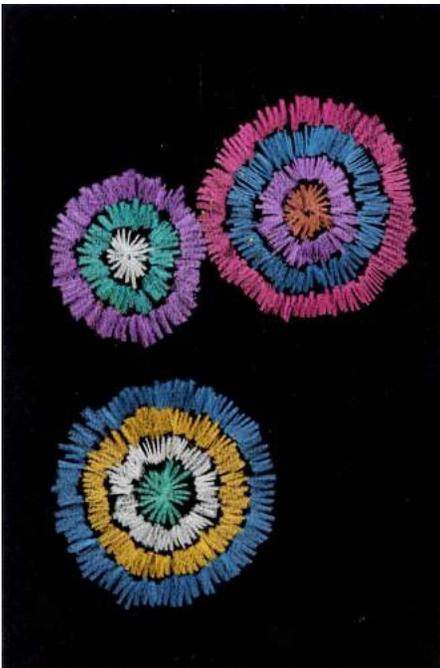

1. Start with about three small flower shapes, leaving lots of room between each one.

2. Add a ring around each. Try to be consistent, making each ring either a loose or a tight zig zag.

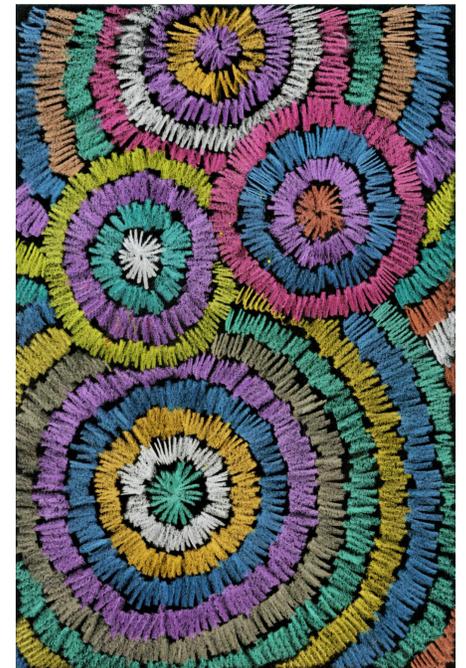

3. Continue adding zig zag rings, using lots of different colors.

4. When two rings touch, decide which one you want in the back, and continue.

5. Add rings to the firework in the back. Continue, making sure the rings are consistent. It works best when rings look like they are all in one group.

6. To finish, add one last big burst in the back that fills up the entire page. It will help the front fireworks stand out more.
